COMMENTARY

- The NAV remained unchanged over the month despite falling slightly during Q4 by 1.4% which reduced the yearly growth in NAV to 2.6%. In addition to this 12-month growth in NAV, the company paid Rs. 0.26 in dividends over the past year.
- After trading near-record levels during December, the S&P 500 ended the month slightly in the red (-0.05%), driven by year-end rebalancing and profit-taking.
- The Euro Stoxx 50 and FTSE 100 both gained 2.17%, supported by interest rate easing expectations and a strong performance in both financials and commodity-linked stocks.
- SEMDEX's (-0.30%) was weighed down by the continued weakness in MCB's share price during the month.
